M: Let's talk about the newsletter.

W: OK, let's check what we've got so far. We've decided to have one main story and one short story, right?

M: Right. And what about pictures? Should we have one for each story?

W: I'm not so sure about that. Maybe it would be too much. How about just for the main story?

M: That sounds good. Now, what will our stories be? We could do one about the students who visited from Hawaii. Maybe we could use one of the photos they sent us.

これで音量の調節は終わりです。

W: I'm interested in reading trends in the U.S.

M: Here's a table showing the changing number of American readers between 2002 and 2008.

W: Hmm.... Interesting. There was an overall increase of 7%.

M: That's right. The number of readers increased in most age groups. Only readers between the ages of 45 and 54 decreased in number by 3%.

W: I wonder why.

M: It's hard to explain, because readers near that age group increased. Those aged 35 to 44 increased by 9%, as did people in their late 50s to early 60s.

W: I noticed my grandmother started reading for pleasure after she retired.

M: I'm not surprised. The elderly aged 75 and older showed the second largest increase of 15%.

W: What about young people?

M: They tend to read books on the Internet. That explains why people in their late teens and early twenties showed the largest increase—21%.

W: That's helpful information. Thanks.

When the ship arrived in Seattle, a worker found a cat that had been trapped among the containers for nearly a month. The cat was taken to an animal shelter where her physical condition was checked. People were amazed the cat survived so long. Interestingly, the ship, which had previously had a rat problem, was now free of rats.

Question No. 22

As a professional photographer I would like to give you some suggestions for successful landscape photography. In winter, for example, when the days are short, you need to know where you're going and what you want to photograph. You can get familiar with the area you're planning to visit by reading guidebooks and studying maps. Then, you'll know beforehand where the most attractive locations are, rather than leaving it to chance. At the location, you may need to get off the main path, so you should be careful. To take a good photo, it may be necessary to be in freezing conditions which might be dangerous.

Questions No. 23 to 25

Many of the world's best-loved symphonies are known by popular nicknames given by the general public or music publishers rather than by their composers. A number of Haydn's symphonies have nicknames such as the Surprise Symphony, the Military Symphony and the Clock Symphony. Another example of this type is the Farewell Symphony, in which the musicians leave the stage one by one as they finish playing. Eventually, the two violinists who are left put down their instruments and walk away from the stage in silence. This ends the performance.

The story behind this piece is that the prince, for whom Haydn worked, had taken all of the musicians to his second palace in the countryside where he liked to go hunting. The musicians found the weather and working conditions at this place to be very unpleasant. Moreover, they missed their families and the simple comforts of home. When the Farewell Symphony was first performed at the country palace, the prince understood the message of Haydn's music at once. The next day he ordered that his entire household return to the city so they could be with their families in time for Christmas.
